

5325 Student Expression Through Production or Distribution of Printed Material

The Board encourages school-sponsored student publications as a medium of school news and information. It also looks upon student publications as a means through which the student staff will obtain experience in writing, editing, and publishing.

The normal requirements for responsible journalism will apply to student publications.

Students may decide on the content of school-sponsored publications subject to the requirements of these guidelines. The teacher-advisor will provide direction and guidance on grammar, format, suitability of materials, responsible journalism, and literary taste; and will counsel students against use of any material which is derogatory to any individual on the basis of age, sex, race, creed, national origin, religion, or disabling condition.
